Pin trading's top 10 pins

Top 10 pins as of Wednesday, March 6, 1996

1. Transportation — This one is shaped like the Arctic Winter Games bus which you have seen traveling around the silver loop during the games. Only 300 were produced, so see your friendly bus drivers to try to strike your best bargain! This one should be good for at least a two- or three-to-one trade!

2. CBC North — This pin is square with twin circles depicting the circumpolar map of the world and the logo of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. There were 800 pins produced, but only 500 of them came to Alaska with the remainder being distributed to CBC staff across northern Canada.

3. The Chugiak - Eagle River Host Society pin. This one is gold and looks very much like the gold "Baba" pin out of the gold, silver, bronze set that was issued except it has "Host Society" on the lower right side. Make sure you get the real thing. Look for Chugiak - Eagle River board members they have trading stock and you should be able to strike up a great deal!

4. Any volunteer pins. People had to work really hard for these and you'll have to have a silver tongue to talk them out of one, but hey, you never know — they might want something you've got and be willing to trade! There are six pins; 25 hours, 50 hours, 75 hours, 100 hours, 150 hours and 200 hours.

5. One of the most coveted pins is the wooden lasered "Officials" pin sponsored by the Rural Discount Center. These are VERY hard to find and getting the officials to part with one will take some outstanding negotiating skills. This is one that you REALLY want to find!

6. The "Spirit Ring" pin was sold out by Monday morning. This is the round white pin with the various animals, ulus symbols radiating off from the corporate seal. This was bringing a three-for-one trade on Tuesday!

7. TEAM NWT's logo, the Polar Bear, is always a hit! This set of games is no exception.

8. The Yellowknife 1998 society pin is out and about. This one is really going to be rare because it depicts a ptarmigan on it and the mascot has been changed since this pin was issued. It's a great looking gold rectangle so be on the lookout!

9. Haven't seen too many of the Yukon pins. The Team pin seems to be available but the others have been a little harder to come by.

10. The Team Alaska pins are out there, but not readily available. We have seen a few athlete pins, but not many others. The most unusual one is a solid gold State of Alaska pin with the corporate logo on it. There are only 10 of these produced, so you'll be lucky to even see one! Keep your eyes open and who knows ... maybe you'll spot one.

Don't forget to ask Media people and Anchorage Police officers for their pins, this is the first time a police department has ever issued a special pin just for the Arctic Winter Games!

Mayor Mystrom remembers the Games

By RICK MYSTROM
As told to JOHN GARTIEZ

Having been a good sprinter and hurdler in high-school I decided to compete in some event in the 1974 Arctic Winter Games in Anchorage. Curiously I attended the tryouts at Park Strip to watch, apprehensive to participate. I asked an official, "when is the 100 meter race to be held?"

"The race was held 45 minutes ago," he said, "if you want to do a time trial I'll time you", he offered. So I borrowed some snowshoes and then I hid behind some cars to practice because I had never been on snowshoes. When I was comfortable I went back to the man. "I'm ready," I told him. And I prepared for my first snowshoeing time trial.

For the first 50 meters I concentrated on remaining on my feet without catching the snowshoe tip. It worked, so I pushed myself a little more in the last 50 meters.

"Twenty-one seconds," shouted a voice as I crossed the finish line. "You're on the team," I was told. I had no idea that my time was the fastest time of the day. I was very excited I had made the team.

I was a snowshoer without snowshoes. I bought a pair at Eberhard's Sporting Goods and practiced until I was able to get a time of 15.5 seconds in the 100 meters. My time was half a second behind the North American Record.

The games started. The "big guy" to beat was competitor Brian Long from the Northwest Territories, Canada. He was their national snowshoe champion. In the preliminary trials I competed in four different heats against six to eight competitors. This would decide who would be in the finals. I ended up in the same heat as Brian.

The gun sounded and Brian was off to a tremendous start. At the 50 meter mark he was two strides ahead of me. I quickened, catching him at 95 meters and we crossed the finish line in dead heat! We were the two top finishers and went on to the finals.

The finals were later that day with eight competitors. Brian with a fast start was ahead but I was not far behind. At the 50-meter mark he was two strides ahead of me. I knew I could beat him!

I pulled ahead a yard with 20 meters to go. But then, I caught the tip of my snowshoe and fell. The whole field rushed past me. I felt really terrible. I competed in the 400 meters later that week and took 4th or 5th place. I didn't medal.

Eventually I made Team Alaska for the 1976 winter games in Sheffordville, Quebec, Canada. My son's tonsillectomy the night before departure forced my withdrawal.

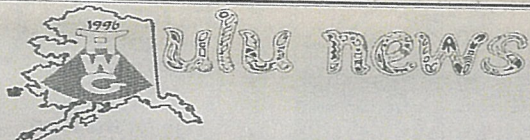

I went on to win the Fur Rondy snowshoe races nine out of the 12 years I competed.

My snowshoe legacy continued with my oldest son, a hockey competitor in the 1984 Arctic Winter Games in Yellowknife, Northwest Territories, Canada.

My experiences as an athlete in the Arctic Winter Games remain constant; the camaraderie of the athletes, the competition, the spirit. We competed for the fun of the sport. The Arctic Winter Games was amateur athletics at its best.

Anchorage Mayor Rick Mystrom competed in the 1976 Arctic Winter Games in Sheffordville, Quebec, Canada.

Athletes arrive, volunteers fix glitches

By KRISTEN SEINE
Alaska Star Reporter

Anchorage International Airport took on the air of a family reunion this weekend as competitors from Canada, Greenland, Russia and northern Alaska arrived to participate in the 1996 Arctic Winter Games.

Hundreds of tired but excited athletes were greeted by volunteers from the Arctic Winter Games, representatives from Anchorage and Eagle River and even Monte the Moose, the official mascot of the Anchorage Convention and Visitors Bureau.

As with any multi-million-dollar event involving thousands of people, there was a lot to be done before athletes could be processed, loaded into buses and taken to their temporary homes at the "villages" in Eagle River. There were also a lot of last-minute glitches to be dealt with, said Games executive director Dan Sullivan.

Right off the bat, it was learned that the team from Magadan, Russia was going to be late getting into the country. "The plane couldn't land, there was no safety certification," Sullivan said.

He explained that the type of plane chartered by the team did not meet American safety standards. The team switched to an Aeroflot flight, but didn't arrive until early Monday morning.

Sullivan said the group was taken to their accommodations and fed, and then taken straight to their competitions, many of which began Monday morning as well. "They didn't get much rest, but they're a hearty bunch," he said.

Games volunteers had other minor catastrophes to deal with as well. "There is so much to something like this that you don't even realize it until it gets started," Sullivan said.

From athletes missing their buses to athletes missing a meal and wanting boxed lunches to the wrong kinds of floors at venue sites, volunteers have been using their imaginative and diplomatic skills to overcome obstacles of all kinds.

Virginia Thomas, chair of the Arctic Sports committee, received the first Fair Play pin award for her role in solving the Gruening Middle School floor problem. Ian Legaree, technical director for the International committee, awarded the pin Monday.

"The pin is awarded to someone who goes above and beyond to instill a sense of the spirit of the Games," he said. It was for that the tile-on-concrete floor at the school wasn't suitable for some of the events to be held there. Thomas was integral in both solving the problem by finding a covering for the floor and working with the athletes.

"Our goal is every day to look at what we're doing well," Sullivan said. "There have been more successes than obstacles and the volunteers have proven incredibly efficient and hard-working."

"The way we see it, we'll get it figured out," he said.

One of the unexpected happenings could be described more as an achievement than a problem. "Our merchandise store is sell out already," Sullivan said. "We thought had enough in for the whole two weeks."

The store is ordering more items and expects them in soon, he added.

Things you don't want to miss in Eagle River

By KRISTEN SEINE
Alaska Star Reporter

While most of the athletes' time will be devoted to sport this week, visitors to the Chugiak - Eagle River may find themselves with a bit of time on their hands.

If that is the case, there is much to do that's fun in the area. Here is a sample of what Eagle River has to offer:

Indoors:

The Southcentral Alaska Museum of Natural History is a wonderful place to learn about the land itself. The museum features something interesting from each of Southcentral Alaska's unique locations.

Visitors to the museum can get acquainted with early Alaskans, viewing a partial mammoth skeleton and displays covering cultures of the area's coastline. A lapidary display near the front of the museum shows minerals and rocks of the Talkeetna Mountains, including fossilized dinosaurs and the "fossil forest."

The museum also displays the animals native to the region — a mountain goat from Turnagain Arm, for example. Visit the "vanishing lake" or learn about earthquake park!

The museum is located in the Parkgate Building on the Old Glenn Highway (across from Wendy's). For more information, call 694-0819.

Never been bowling? Now's the time to try it! Sourdough Bowl in Eagle River, located at the corner of Business Blvd. and Regency Drive, offers 24 lanes complete with shoe rental ($1.25 per pair) and free bowling ball rental. For more information, call 694-6670.

Those wanting to relax for a bit can take in a movie at Valley River Cinemas. There are six screens, so patrons can choose from six movies — call 694-6464 for movie listings and times. The cinema complex is located next to the post office on Business Blvd.

Those wanting to relax with a good book should take in the Chugiak - Eagle River Public Library, located at 12400 Old Glenn Highway. The library currently has more than 65,000 books on its shelves.

Outdoors:

The Eagle River Nature Center, located at Mile 12 Eagle River Road, is closed during the winter, but several nature trails stem from the center and are open year-round.

The Rodak Nature trail, a 3/4-mile interpretive walking trail, offers an opportunity to view the flora and fauna of the area, along with chance to learn of the animals of the area — few moose tend to hang around the area, or carter staffers said.

The Albert Loop Trail also starts off at the Nature Center. The 3-mile trail, like the Rodak Trail, is usually groomed for cross-country skiing and is good for walking as well.

Remember, several interesting and fun events will be occurring during the Games. Check your schedule for times and locations.

Alaska tops two-foot kick

By BROOK SARVELA
Alaska Star Student Writer

Four inches after four inches, competitors in the Arctic Games two foot high kick jumped for gold, silver and bronze ulus yesterday at Gruening Middle School.

The two foot high kick is an Inuit game that has been going on for hundreds of years. The Arctic Games were never meant for competition.

The two foot high kick originated from the men's excitement upon returning from hunting trips. Sometimes when the hunt was unsuccessful, the men would compete in a two foot high kick instead of a one foot high kick.

"The competitor has three attempts at the height which the ball is at. They come to the ball, kick with both feet and land with both feet," described Master of Ceremonies Steven Kaparik.

Unlike many of today's sports, camaraderie is one of the biggest elements of Arctic sports. "That is the beauty of these games," commented Kaparik.

Teams representing Alaska, Northwest Territories and Tyumen competed together in the two foot high kick. Though the Tyumen athletes were unsuccessful in their jumps, competitors came very close to the ball and provided exciting entertainment for the spectators and other competitors.

As the height of the balls climbed over an arm length above the athletes' heads, the sport became more and more exciting to watch.

Nicole Johnson of Team Alaska was the first place winner of the women's competition with a winning kick of 74 inches. Johnson holds a world record of 75 inches in the two foot high kick. Johnson set the record in 1994. Meika McDonald of Northwest Territories and Laureli Ivanoff of Team Alaska came in second and third with heights of 72 inches and 62 inches.

Arctic Sports continue today at Gruening Middle School beginning at 10 a.m. Events include the two foot high kick (junior female), the Alaska high kick, the stick pull, and the head pull.

Ulu News Athlete of the Day

Tamara Goepfel
Snowshoeing
Team Yukon Territory

Two years ago, Tamara Goepfel decided she'd like to get some experience using snowshoes. She asked if it would be alright for her to train with Team Yukon as they prepared for the Arctic Winter Games in Slave Lake.

Standing in front of the stage in Town Square Park Monday afternoon in Eagle River, she was looking forward to the hot tub at the home of her hosts in Birchwood. She had competed in the snowshoeing event shortly before, covering the 5k women's open course. She covered it well enough, in fact, to win the gold ulu.

She tried out for Team Yukon this year, she said, "and managed to make the team."

Snowshoeing, the 29-year-old Whitehorse resident said, "is not a flashy sport, but it's still very tough. It's not forgiving." That's why the hot tub sounded so good as she looked forward to the evening.

"I was very lucky today," Tamara said modestly of her first-place finish in the 5k. "It's a really tough course, with lots of hills. We had a fast start and the first half took all our energy. In the second half, it was just a matter of getting home."

Of the 1996 Winter Games, Tamara said, "It's been fantastic, seeing all the different cultures. I've never been in something like this. I'm very honored to be here."

As to what has most impressed her about the Winter Games in Eagle River: "Alaskans are very friendly people, just wonderful," she said.

Tyumen and Magadan teams to beat

Table tennis coordinator Karl Augestad is a good judge of talent, table tennis talent that is, and according to him, the two teams from Tyumen and Magadan are tough to beat.

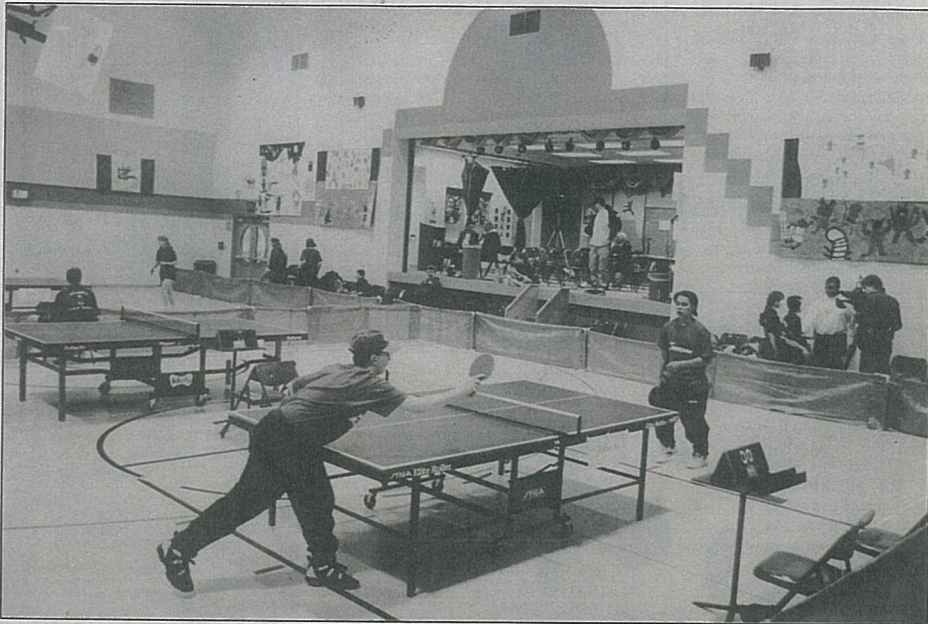

"They are already at a calibre well above the rest," said Augestad, himself Alaska's table tennis singles champion.

In an informal game Monday against Magadan's Roman Kalabine, Augestad was defeated 21-18. "But I didn't get a good warmup and I didn't have my shorts on," said the coordinator with a laugh. A rematch is tentatively scheduled for later in the week.

With round robin competition only two days along, both Teams Tyumen and Magadan are undefeated. In fact, neither has lost a game in the best two-of-three games to 21 format.

Augestad said the sport of table tennis is blessed with the most distinguished past players as judges. The four courtside judges are all former Olympians, two from Canada and two from the United States. Former worlds doubles champion Jimmy McClure (1937-38) is the equipment director for the table tennis champion of the Arctic Winter Games.

Each team can be represented with two boys and two girls. Nearly every coach is also a former AWG competitor, with Augestad himself a 1982 games entrant. Yukon coach Kevin Murphy said he was a competitor in the first Games in 1970. "I was 0-13. The reason I wasn't 0-14 was because I defaulted one match," he said

Alaska kickers defeat Greenland

Team Alaska's juvenile boys indoor soccer team upped their record to 1 win, 1 loss and 1 tie with a 6-2 win Tuesday night. Alaska lost to Magadan, 5-3, Monday evening after tying with Alberta, 5-5, Monday morning.

Team Alaska jumped out to a 3-0 first half lead on a pair of goals by Nathan Chad and a late score by Justin Gardner.

Early in the second half, Dominic Zimmerman extended Team Alaska's lead to 4-0 on a penalty shot. Ben Morgan made the nicest goal of the game taking the pass in midcourt, juking two defenders then kicking

Woody Gamage scored a goal to put Team Alaska up 6-0, before Greenland's Ryan O'Donovan closed out the game with two goals for the final score.

Alaska's three goals against Magadan were contributed by Nathan Eberle and two by Justin Gardner.

Round-robin action for both the juvenile and junior boys and girls continues through Wednesday prior to championship round play Thursday and Friday.

Indoor soccer different than outdoor

England is considered the mother of soccer but the first recorded game-like events were in China. The modern game has been played since the early 1800s.

The English brought the game to the rest of the world when the colonized countries as they built the great British Empire.

Soccer, mostly played outdoors, moved inside when the Major Indoor Soccer League formed its competition in the U.S. in 1978. It has caught on as a contemporary sport and is played by all ages at all levels.

The popularity of outdoor soccer has paved the way for the sport to move indoors to accommodate the many children and adults who wish to participate.

There are some major differences between indoor and outdoor soccer.

- Indoor soccer has fewer players
- Indoor soccer has boards surrounding the field to allow for new passing moves
- Unlimited substitutions are allowed in indoor soccer while the ball is in play

• No offside rule is enforced in indoor soccer

• Indoor soccer is a faster version of the outdoor game because it is played on a much smaller field.

Team Alberta strikes gold — pins that is

By STACY SIMONET
Alaska Star Managing Editor

Team Alberta has struck gold—gold "Fair Play" pins that is. The team has been on both the giving and receiving end of the new awards being handed out at this year's Games.

"I think it's really something when these kids are heartbroken they didn't get a medal and can still come off the ice and show sportsmanship," said Arlene Beaudet, mission staff for Team Alberta.

Wendy Garratt, Steven Magill and Ian McFatrige, all speed skaters, were awarded the "Fair Play" pins on Tuesday for being good sports despite disappointing races on the oval.

Beaudet said Games officials presented the skaters with the pins and explained what an honor they are.

"They just couldn't believe it," Beaudet said about the recipients.

The skaters were the first members of Team Alberta to receive the honor. However, Alberta's wrestling coach was the first to give a pin.

Travis Kahn, 15, made the Team Alberta wrestling squad in the 112 pound slot. Kahn suffers from Crones Disease and has to take a prescription drug containing steroids. Since he qualified for the team, he has gained five pounds.

"Usually if you're a wrestler and you're over the weight category, you can't compete," said Vicki Leonard-Gilbert, chef de mission for Team Alberta. She said Kahn was "totally disheartened" when he found out he wasn't going to be able to compete.

Alberta's coach really wanted to include Kahn in the Arctic Games so he contacted the International Committee and explained the situation.

The chefs de mission voted to let Kahn participate in the next weight level up, giving Alberta two wrestlers in one category and no one in the 112 spot.

"It was very precedent setting. It showed great sportsmanship," Leonard-Gilbert said.

Once Kahn and his team arrived in Eagle River, the wrestling coaches from all teams had a meeting. The Alberta situation was brought up at the meeting.

Not only did the coaches support the Committee's decision, they voted to let Kahn wrestle at the 112 weight — although he is still five pounds over weight.

"We certainly didn't expect that," Leonard-Gilbert said. She said the coaches felt that even though he had an extra five pounds, he didn't have extra strength and were worried about his safety with the bigger, stronger wrestlers.

"I think their hearts were in the right place," Leonard-Gilbert said.

To honor the other wrestling coaches in their decision, Team Alberta's coach presented them with a "Fair Play" pin.

Smallest competitor on even plane on skates

Being only 12 years old and weighing only 65 pounds, Northwest Territories' Alana Demko gives up a lot to opponents in the women's 15-19 division in speed skating, but heart isn't one of them.

By far the smallest competitor in her age division, Demko is not even five feet tall. Yet, with the 18-inch blades strapped to her feet, she stands on an even plane with others competing in daily events at the Harry J. McDonald Memorial Center.

A resident of Yellowknife, Yukon, Demko has been skating for four years. During the 1994 Games in Slave Lake, she was too young to compete. This year, she and her older brother Mike are part of a powerful NWT team that is taking this sport by storm.

With preliminaries in all four divisions —

500m, 777m, 1,000m and 1,500m completed and some of the finals already being held Tuesday, NWT has qualified more athletes for the title races than the other four countries.

In the 500m junior and juvenile male and females races Tuesday morning, NWT often had four or five of the six qualifiers.

One of the more impressive finishes was the one-two showing of NWT teammates Mike Demko and David Monroe in the juvenile men's final. The day's fastest time for the short track 500m was posted by NWT's David McCann.

Alana Demko won her qualifying heat of the 1,500m but finished fifth in the 500m final. She competes in three other events Thursday.

Outnumbered five-to-one, Alberta's Michelle Mah of Slave Lake won the junior women's 500m final. Mah had led in her 1,500m qualifying heat before slipping on the next to last lap, allowing Demko to win the heat and advance into the finals.

The following athletes are competing for their countries:

The 1996 Arctic Winter Games Arts

& Crafts Fair opened Sunday at Eagle River Elementary School. Sixty Alaskan artisans will sell their hand-made arts and crafts at the Fair during the week of the Games. Located at Eagle River Elementary School, across from the Arctic Winter Games Media Center, the Arts and Crafts Fair will provide an opportunity to see and purchase, if desired, the finest in arts and crafts of the Alaska. Included will be dolls, beadwork, silver, ivory, baskets, art, slippers and mukluks, Arctic frogs, stoneware, winter wear, photographs, sculptures, wooden items, quiviut, ulus, spirit masks, storytelling tapes, Eskimo drums, ceramics, toys, fur and leather, ba-len, soapstone and wind chimes.

For more information regarding the Arts & Crafts Fair, please contact the Arctic Winter Games Host Society office at 694-8866.

Fiddlers headline at Games cultural galas

Headlining the Galas at Chugiak High School's auditorium March 7 and 8 are two of Alaska's most famous fiddlers, Bill Stevens and Bobby Bowlin, and the cultural contingents from the seven participating teams at the Arctic Winter Games. Stevens is a professional fiddler specializing in the old-time fiddling music of interior Alaska also known as Athabaskan Fiddling. He began playing the fiddle at the age of 14, being inspired by the late Paul Ben Cassi of Old Crow, Y.T. Canada.

Stevens will share the stage with one of Alaska's youngest and most astounding fiddlers, Bobby Bowlin. Only 10 years old, Bowlin has already cut two albums and has played with a host of country music greats including the Charlie Daniels Band and Riders in The Sky. Bowlin is the 1993 Alaska State Fiddle Champion for ages 8 and under and represented the State of Alaska at the 1993 National Old Time Fiddlers contest in Weiser, Idaho.

When not playing the fiddle, Bobby is a fourth grader at Pioneer Peak Elementary School in Palmer, Alaska.

Christian coffee house shows cross-cultural unity

By JEANNE ENRIGHT
Alaska Star Reporter

Coffee, anyone?

They're serving that, along with a splash of faith, at the Arctic Crossroads Coffeehouse at the Carrs Mall this week.

The Christian coffeehouse provides weary athletes, coaches, staff and other visitors an opportunity to relax with a cup of free java or, for a fee, espresso, said Pastor Frank Blodgett, spokesman for the event.

Patrons can also enjoy Christian entertainment. Youth With a Mission (YWAM) sent groups from Norway, Denmark and Canada to provide Christian entertainment with an international flair.

Local groups, such as No Longer Strangers, Couriers, Paging Heaven and others are also entertaining the coffeehouse crowd.

Entertainment begins around 6 p.m. and ends when the coffeehouse closes at 10 p.m. Blodgett said the coffeehouse, which will be staffed by volunteers from area churches, should be a great place for Games-goers to rest and warm-up between events.

But what really sets this coffeehouse apart is the "Jesus Film Project." A video depicting the life of Christ will be running at all times, although it will be muted during the entertainment.

Athletes, coaches and officials from the teams can take home a complimentary video, contributed by the sponsor of the event, the Eagle River Ministerial Association of Alaska.

The video will be available in several different languages. The coaches, athletes and officials can obtain the video by filling out the coupon in the coupon book that is in their "welcome packets," Blodgett said.

"The main reason (for the coffeehouse) is to show Christian unity and to show cross-cultural unity, and of course to share our faith by song and drama," said Blodgett.

Blodgett wished to thank Carrs-Gottstein for donating space in the Carrs Mall on Business Boulevard for the coffeehouse. The space is the former location of Image Center, next to Wild About Books.

The coffeehouse will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Sunday during the games, Blodgett said.

US Army Alaska, major Arctic Game supporter

One of the major supporters of the 1996 Arctic Winter Games is the U.S. Army Alaska. The Army's headquarters and a major installation are located on Fort Richardson, adjacent to Chugiak - Eagle River. Alaska's senior Army commander, Maj. Gen. Thomas H. Needham, was an early advocate of the Games and authorized the use of Fort Richardson's Buckner Field House for the volleyball venue. The field house is a state-of-the-art facility that just underwent a multi-million dollar upgrade.

Gen. Needham left Alaska in February for a new assignment at Fort Bragg, N.C. His successor, Maj. Gen. Kenneth W. Simpson, is on hand as the Games take place.

"We could not have done it without the Army's support," said Charles "Gary" Creviston, the Games' director in charge of the facilities committees. "The Army has been extremely supportive, from the soldiers right up to Gen. Needham. We owe them our deep gratitude," he said.

The Games' Chefs de Mission (or chief of the major participant teams) and other senior officials are being housed in Army guest quarters also on Fort Richardson.

Volunteer soldiers are assisting with transportation and with setting up and tearing down the facilities at Village Chugiak and Village Gruening where team members are being housed during the Games. The Army also loaned the Games the use of hundreds of steel cots for athletes in the housing venues.

Other support is not as noticeable, but is vital. The Alpenglow Ski Area is a civilian operation located on Army property in Arctic Valley on Fort Richardson. The Army's road maintenance personnel are keeping the steep, winding mountain road to the ski area open and clear during the Games, bolstering their normal upkeep to assure safety and minimize transportation delays.

Support efforts are being coordinated by Col. Albert Kraus through the Army's Department of Public Works, which he heads.

COMPETE HARD

REST ON US!

Alaska Commercial Company and The North West Company, the North's leading retailers for over 300 years, together with Woods Canada, Canada's foremost name in outdoor equipment, are proud to again donate sleeping bags to every participant at the Arctic Winter Games.

Congratulations to each of the more than 1,500 athletes, coaches and officials. We know what it takes to perform in the North. Compete hard, have fun and sleep well!

When It's Time
To Choose A Radio
Communications Supplier,
This Is The Last Thing
You Want To Do.

Before you stick your neck out and invest your community's money on a radio communications system, it pays to ask around.

Ask police officers which radio communications equipment they rely on to protect their citizens. Ask fire fighters which equipment they trust most during emergencies. Ask your friends in government what supplier they turn to to solve their radio communications needs.

Time and time again, you'll hear the Motorola name. And with good reason. Motorola is one of the world's leading providers of wireless communications. And we've been providing communications solutions to government agencies for more than 50 years.

Why stick your neck out, when all you have to do is ask Motorola.

No Frostbite. No Gain.

It's never too cold for these guys. In fact, you might say cold becomes them. They think it's getting warm when the temperature dips above minus twenty. A little weird yes, but these are the Arctic Winter Games we're talking about. And for the first time, Alaska and GCI proudly sponsor this world class event.

COMMUNICATION THROUGH SPORTS.

Athletics bring together people from all over the world. They open up a line of communication, and help us all enjoy life a little more. Kind of like MACTel.

We're pleased to be an official sponsor of the 1996 Arctic Winter Games. We thank the more than 2,000 volunteers and 1,500 athletes and coaches that have made this a truly memorable occasion.
